A HIGHLAND RELIC.

Wenpon That Created a Sensation.

Very Quiet Election. MONTEREY, HIGHLAND COUNTY, VA., November 9.-(Special.)-What, it was supposed would prove a valuable find was an old war-relic picked up by Mr. James A. Trimble on the mountain-side one and a half miles east of Monterey a few days ago.

When it was reported here that Mr. Trimble had found a knife with the name of Robert E. Lee on the handle much extensive was short and at the much excitement was shown, and at the request of your correspondent the "knife" was brought to town for examination. Instead of a pocket-knife it proved to be a large poniard or a cross between a dirk and a sword. The blade, which is about twelve inches long, is shop-made, and is mounted by what was once a beautiful sword-handle, the hand-hold being wrapped with a delicate, fourply wire, with an eagle's head for the finish, of a silver-looking metal. On the flat surface of the hilt are three lines of "reading matter," difficult to find, but perfectly visible after being located. The first line is too nearly ob-scured by usage and time to be deciphered at all, and the second is the one that led the finder to believe that the weapon was once the property of the great, Con-federate General, he having crossed this mountain soon after the Rich Mountain (W. Va.) fight. This line of reading ends with EE, but your correspondent, with the aid of a magnifying-glass, was unable the air of a magnifying gass, was made to decide whether the preceding let-ter was L or S. The third line is about the length of "Tennessee," and resembles that word as much as any other. While the length of the name and some of the letters resemble "Robert E. Lee," there is but little reason to believe that it was his property, as it bears more likeness to the war-instrument of a "Louisiana Tiger" than to that of our humane and beloved Lee. It is claimed by some that perhaps it might have been presented to him by one of his rustic admirers, per-chance a village blacksmith.

UNWIELDY.

UNWIELDY.

The dirk, or whatever it may be termed, is more unwieldy than uncouth, having been at one time really handsome, and is in a splendid state of preservation: and the letters, which have been nicely put on with a steel stamp, are apparently rendered illegible by usage, rather than by rust or exposure.

General Lee passed over this thoroughfare during the fail of 18sl, spending two days in Monterey, and being the guest of the late Adam H. Fleisher. The claims of the finder of this relic are not wholly absurd, and it is hoped he may be able to substantiate them.

Since the finding of this knife I learn of two others, as crude and unshapely, that were found during the past few years in our county, and are said to be entirely shop-made. These recall a

Every one capable of prac-ng the art of self-defence cought weapons, and the village smithy Monterey became the resort of scores of patriotic and home-loving boys, wo-men, and men, seeking to have old files, scythe-blades, etc., converted into weapons of defence. Many of the weapons are yet in existence. QUIET ELECTION.

The vote of Highland at the hast apring's election aggregated nearly 1,200, and at this it barely reached 500. It is difficult to say whether the Democrats were injured more than the Republicans by the stay-at-home vote, as both parities seemed indifferent and apparently cared little for the result.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. NEW YORK, November 2.—Stocks opened depressed on further liquidation for foreign account and lower cables from London. The situation abroad does not improve, and the indications point to failures of stock firms in London and to fatheres of stock firms in London and Paris, owing to the heavy shrinkage in Kaffirs and other securities there. The early decline in prices here was equal to 1-2513-4 per cent, Lake Shore and Louisville and Nashville being particular-ly weak. Home operators, however, were not dismayed by the doleful news from abroad, and there was buying to cover short contracts right through the list. An improvements of 1-4913-4 followed. An improvements of 1-49/13-4 followed. In this rise, Sugar, Tobacco, Tennessee Coal and Iron, the Grangers, Leather preferred, Northern Pacific preferred, and Reading were all prominent. The Northwest will probably need money soon, but to what extent is uncertain.
The shipments for the past week have been rather local in character, and the receipts have been from near-by cities.
The heavy liquidation of the week is seen in the unusually large contraction of $4.788.00 in loans. Not since, May 18th has the total of loans been as low as reported last week, and the contraction from the high-water mark of $22,698.300. from the high-water mark of $22,098,000, reached on September lith, is about $27,000,000. Deposits fell off $1,205,600, and now stand at $557,955,000, a decrease of almost $49,000,000 in two months.

Total, $5,602.65.

Receipts have been large in loose brights this week, with taying quite strong and prices fully firm for the week, while color holds out well. Next week receipts of loose will be still more liberal, due to a good tobacco season, when large sales of darks will also begin, and something of the quality of the crop will be ascertained.

Petersburg has sold up to $1,40. this weeks, and the tobacco shows very badly—thin and rather silky, with some gum, but nothing indicating body or spread thus far.

The crop is small, and receipts will depend upon what can be drawn from other markets, to make up anything like an average year's sale. The Richmond territory also indicates a falling of in dark, due to drought. The demand for fillers seems to be still for Canadian account.

CHICAGO, November 2.—It having been earned that the decline in English conols and the weakness in French rentes cas due to no political trouble, but to an insettled financial situation in Europe, he wheat market to-day naturally dishayed weakness, as against the strength f yesterday. The activity was mainly cal, with an occasional order from New cork or the Northwest Private halles.

May oats closed a smale day. A loss of '1-4g1-2c, was noted in cash values.

Provisions—In the first few minutes of the session the sum total of the trade in product was one transaction in pork. From that time until the close not over a dozen orders were executed, although at the close the offerings became rather free, but the demant remained light. A weak feeling predominated from start to finish, and at the close January pork had declined 12 1-2c. from yesterday, and January lard and ribs each 2 1-2g5c, Domestic markets were quiet and easy.

RICHMOND TOBACCO MARKET.

played weakness, as against the strength of yesterday. The activity was mainly local, with an occasional order from New York or the Northwest. Private holders and scalpers were the only active people in the market. "Puts" were good at the close, and the fortunate possessors of those options had abundant opportunity inroughout the season to recover the money invested. The Russian crop estimate of 20,00,000 bushels had no perceptible influence on prices.

The Modern Miller, of St. Louis, was decidedly bearish in its reference to wheat, reporting favorable conditions consequent upon the copious rains of the past few days. Estimates of the increase that will be shown in the visible supply Monday ranged from 1,750,000 bushels to 3,000,000, but they were merely guesses.

December wheat opened at from 58-1-2 to 58-1-2035-5c., soid between 58-5-8 and 58-1-2035-5c., soid between 58-5-8 and 58-1-2035-5c., and closed at 58-1-4263-5c., and closed at 58-1-4264-5c. and consensation of a market. The half holiday probably helped to curtail business, but aside from that the indifference of operators was quite conspicuous. The St. Louis Modern Miller reported crop returns as more favorable than expected.

May corn opened at 29-1-2c, declined to 29-1-4622-3-5c., and closed at 53-5c-a shade lower than yesterday. Cash corn was easier. Sellers reported difficulty in obtaining yesterday's prices, and concessions averaging 1-ic, had to be made to effect sales.

An elevator concern appeared to have the monopoly of this market, inasmuch as their trader was making all the bids and offers, without succeeding in transacting much business. Th May cats closed a shade under yester-ay. A loss of 1-1-21-2c, was noted in Opening. Highest. Lowest. Closing. P. M. Mayo,
